2020-2021 Intern Veterinarian Small Animal Internal Medicine

Job Description:

The University of Missouri, College of Veterinary Medicine, Department of Veterinary Medicine and Surgery’s Veterinary Health Center, Columbia and Kansas City, MO locations are soliciting applications for a one-year internship in small animal internal medicine to begin July 15, 2020. This internship is designed to prepare the intern for application to a residency in the candidate’s intended specialty while practicing high quality small animal emergency medicine at the Veterinary Health Center in Kansas City, MO and small animal internal medicine in Columbia, MO.

At the Veterinary Health Center in Kansas City: The intern will work four 6-12 hour full-service shifts (typically, Friday- Saturday-Sunday-Monday) every other week, and these shifts could be overnight. The intern will also be expected to work some holiday shifts.

At the University of Missouri Veterinary Health Center in Columbia: The intern will have research and teaching responsibilities in the small animal internal medicine section. The intern will explore research opportunities which may include prospective or retrospective studies. The intern is encouraged to submit a case report, review, or other manuscript for publication prior to completion of the program. The intern will be expected to attend weekly resident/intern seminars and will present one 25-minute seminar. The topic of the seminar will be chosen by the intern in consultation with the intern’s faculty advisor. When not fulfilling duties at VHC-KC in Kansas City, the intern will participate in and attend journal club, conferences, and rounds associated with the intern’s specialty. Other duties as assigned. The program/job description may be altered based upon input from the program supervisor and departmental chair.
