Please join us for this day full of updates in small animal internal medicine.

Lectures for Veterinarians and Veterinary Technicians:

Increased Liver Enzymes: What Now?
Dr. Aida Vientos-Plotts
This lecture will review common causes for alterations in liver enzymes and strategies for diagnosis and medical management.

Pharmacologic Management of Respiratory Disease
Dr. Carol Reiner
Using clinical case examples, in this lecture we will review the indications, contraindications and limitations of common (and sometimes not so common) drugs used to treat respiratory disorders in dogs and cats.

Endocrine Disease Pharmacology
Dr. Amy DeClue
In this lecture we will review medical management strategies for various endocrine diseases with an emphasis on utilizing pharmacologic principles to minimize cost and maximize outcome.

Antimicrobial Drugs in Small Animal Medicine: Stewardship, Guidelines, and More
Dr. Leah Cohn
Antimicrobial drugs are like parachutes – they can save your life if you are jumping out of an airplane, but can drag you down if you are in a sinking boat. The lecture will focus on the appropriate use of antimicrobial drugs in small animal medicine – right time, right drug. Details of recent antimicrobial use guidelines will be presented as will an overview of when certain antimicrobials are NOT a good idea.

Pharmacologic Management of Chronic Kidney Disease
Dr. Laura Nafe
In this lecture we will discuss management of chronic kidney disease with an emphasis on specific indications for various therapeutics commonly used in small animal practice.
